Dear Sir:—I enclose a list of the members of the General George H. Sharpe memorial committee.

The committee has full power in the matter of the selection of a site and design for the monument, the raising of the necessary funds, the expenditure of such funds and the ceremony of unveiling and dedication.

The chairman of the committee has full power to call meetings of the committee, to appoint a vice chairman, a secretary, a treasurer and such other officers or assistants as the committee hereby appointed shall prescribe; and in addition, to appoint an executive committee and such other sub-committees and auxiliary committees, including a women's auxiliary committee, as the committee hereby appointed shall from time to time decide upon.

The Ulster County Society in the city of New York delegates this important task to this able committee under your most competent direction, in full confidence that the result of the unselfish effort of the committee will be a fitting memorial to one of the great patriots of his time, and a credit to the county which is proud to claim him as her very loyal son.

Faithfully yours,
ARTHUR McCAUSLAND.
President.

Persian Foregoes Harem—Civil Ceremony to Make Bahai One Stick

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 29.—Ahamad Schrab, ex-secretary of the Persian legation, forsook the custom of his fathers today and instead of marrying a harem as was his privilege and right, he took until himself a young American girl, Miss Juanita Storch, of Santa Rosalie, Cal. He further declared smilingly, that he had no regrets.

The ceremony was performed Bahai fashion.

"Verily, we are content with the will of God," said the bridegroom.

"Verily, we are satisfied with the desire of God," said the bride.

And it was all over. But later, just to make it stick, a civil ceremony was performed in American fashion.

MAY ELIMINATE SOME ASPIRANTS

Harding Candidacy Gets Crucial Test in Indiana Tuesday Against Johnson and Wood—Hoover or Johnson, Native Sons, Will Acquire Bad Black Eye in California on Same Day.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 29.—Two candidates—Herbert Hoover and Senator Warren G. Harding—next Tuesday will reach a decisive stage in their respective campaigns for the Republican nomination at Chicago, according to non-partisan opinion here.

Hoover and Senator Hiram Johnson will fight it out in the primaries of their native state of California, while Senator Harding will come to grips on the same day with both Johnson and Major General Leonard Wood at the Indiana state convention.

As a sort of preliminary report, Wood and Johnson will match their strength Monday in Maryland, on which date the state wide primaries will be held. Johnson has swept across the state in a whirlwind stumping tour and on Saturday Senator William E. Borah of Idaho will wind up the Johnson campaign in that bailiwick by a speech at Baltimore.

The three-cornered fight in Indiana has been, and still is, of the no quarter kind and when the smoke of the state convention clears next Tuesday there may be one or two candidates missing. In Republican circles it is felt that Senator Harding's candidacy will receive its crucial test on that day and he will enter the fray somewhat handicapped by the small plurality obtained by him over the field in his own state, Ohio, as revealed by the count of yesterday.

Senator Borah is now stumping Indiana in behalf of Senator Johnson. His tour will be brief, however, only four speeches being in his date book—at Gary, Indianapolis, Terre Haute and Fort Wayne. After addressing the voters of the last named place, he leaves for Baltimore to be in at the finish in Maryland.

General Wood, according to his Washington headquarters, will in all likelihood return to Indiana before the final round there.

Herbert Hoover is not officially entered in the Indiana contest. However, and notwithstanding, the former food administrator will not go without his fight next Tuesday. He will have a man's size job on his hands in California, where, in a state wide primary, he and the other native son, Hiram Johnson, have the entire landscape to themselves.

Even General Wood, noted baiter of native and otherwise favorite sons, has left California to Johnson and Hoover.

Some weeks ago there were predictions of Hoover carrying the state over Johnson, but the latter's recent victories and near-victories in the west, middlewest and reputably hostile districts, have boomed the Johnson stock until the advantage seems to be on his side.

The fight, meantime, has grown bitter.

The Johnson faction has charged Hoover with being more British than American and a foe of the farmer, while the Hooverites have came right back, calling Johnson a friend of the "radicals" and "reds," pro-Germans and anti-American aliens.

Both sides are preparing for a cyclonic finish. Both sides realize that defeat in California would be a serious set back, if not a mortal blow. The Hooverites are especially active, keenly alive to the fact that they were late getting into the field. Nobody disputes their vigor now, however, and the last round of their set-to promises to be sporty enough to satisfy the most exacting.

Johnsonians and Hooverites both predict victory, the Johnsonians by a majority ranging all the way from 50,000 to 125,000, the Hoovercrats by figures slightly more modest.

It is predicted here that the candidate who reaps the black eye in the California battle, will experience considerable difficulty in eradicating it in time to make himself presentable at the June gathering in Chicago.

Reprieve Sought for Frazier.

A reprieve is being sought of Governor Smith for Oscar Frazier, sentenced to die for murder the first week in May. Supreme Court Justice Morschauser of Poughkeepsie in asking clemency for the young man says Frazier's case is one of those "where the law fails to take into consideration the human element." In his letter Justice Morschauser tells of testimony showing Joseph Green, the man who was shot, had assaulted Frazier's 12-year-old sister. Frazier testified that he had taken a gun after a night of walking the floor, gone to the farm where Green worked and shot him.

REVERSAL IN BOUTON ACTION

Court of Appeals, in Case Growing Out of Kline Failure, Unanimously Sustains Contention of Van Buren Counsel That Bouton Complaint Was Insufficient as an Omnibus Action.

The financial operations of John D. Kline, who formerly conducted a stock brokerage business in the Warren building on Fair street, and whose failure disclosed large stock transactions with many prominent residents of Kingston, are again brought to public attention by the reversal by the court of appeals on Wednesday of the judgment entered upon the decision of Judge Nichols overruling the demurrer in the omnibus action brought by Maud E. Bouton on behalf of herself and all her principals against Charles H. Van Buren & Company, the large stock and brokerage house of Wall street, New York city.

Van Buren & Company were Kline's correspondents, that is, they executed on the stock exchange orders telegraphed by Kline from Kingston. When Kline failed, customers to whom he was largely indebted sought to hold Van Buren & Company liable as Kline's partners. That firm denied most emphatically that they had any partnership relations whatever with Kline, and alleged that they simply filled orders to buy and sell which he telegraphed to them.

After several trials in different cases, Maud E. Bouton brought an omnibus action against Van Buren & Company, intended to recover for all losses aggregating many thousands of dollars sustained by many different persons because of the failure. Her attorneys were William Grogan and Judge James Jenkins. Van Buren & Company retained Sullivan & Cromwell of New York city, the well known lawyers for large banking interests, Mr. Cromwell having negotiated the sale of the French interest in the Panama Canal to the United States government, for which he received a fee of a million dollars, and also retained Judge Clearwater as counsel.

A demurrer was interposed to the Bouton complaint up on the ground that it was entirely insufficient as an omnibus action; that it did not include all the parties interested; that it would not if carried to judgment, conclusively stop Kline's creditors from bringing further actions, and that in other respects it was insufficient in law. The demurrer was argued before Judge Nichols at the December, 1918, term of supreme court in this city by Judge Clearwater for the Van Burens. The argument was extended, and the briefs submitted were elaborate. Judge Nichols overruled the demurrer, and held that the complaint was amply sufficient, whereupon the Van Burens appealed to the Appellate Division, which early in January in all respects affirmed Judge Nichols who, on the request of Van Buren's counsel, certified the case to the court of appeals, where it was argued early in March, with the result that on Wednesday that court unanimously reversed both the Appellate Division and Judge Nichols, and sustained the contention of the counsel for Van Buren and Company in an opinion written by Judge MacLaughlin.

Counsel states that Van Buren and Company have at all times been ready to turn over to the proper parties in a proper action whatever money and securities remained in their hands but have strenuously objected to any suit at law or in equity which would only partially determine the character of their liability or the rights of Kline's creditors.

DETECTIVE SHOT.

While Making Arrest In Fish Jewel Robbery.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 29.—Police today redoubled their efforts to solve the $75,000 jewel theft at the home of Mrs. Hamilton Fish following the mysterious shooting of Detective James Smith as he was about to arrest Joseph Fried, a former butler in the Fish home. The victim of the detective's bullet gave his name as Benjamin Adler. Police charge him with being a companion of Fried and declare he shot the detective. He was charged with felonious assault.

The butler, who escaped in the excitement, has a prison record, police say, and is enrolled in the Rogue's Gallery.

BALL PRIVILEGE LOST TO BOYS

Gross Violation of Rules Laid Down By Wiltwyck Cemetery Trustees Causes Them to Revoke Permission to Play on West O'Reilly Street Lot.

Some years ago the trustees of the Wiltwyck Rural cemetery granted permission for boys to play baseball on their grounds on West O'Reilly street, upon the condition:

First—That ball should not be played on Sunday.

Second—That there should be no profane or obscene language.

Third—That the players should not enter the grounds of the cemetery or trample upon graves.

Every one of these conditions has been grossly violated. At the annual meeting of the trustees held on Tuesday morning, the board by unanimous vote revoked the permission and passed the following resolution:

"Unanimously resolved, that the permission heretofore given to play baseball on the grounds owned by the association on West O'Reilly street, be, and the same hereby in all respects is revoked, and the superintendent of the cemetery hereby is instructed to prevent the playing of ball thereon, and that a copy of this resolution, duly attested by the secretary of the board, be forwarded to the city judge of the city and to the city's chief of police."

CONFESSION MAY SAVE THREE

Joseph Milano, One of Four Slated to be Electrocuted Today for Killing of Subway Agent Fialo, Says He Fired Fatal Shots—Governor Smith Notified—Men Already in Death Garb.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Ossining, N. Y., April 29.—An eleventh hour confession that he alone was responsible for the murder of Otto Fialo, a station agent on the Intervale avenue station of the New York subway, was made in the death house of Sing Sing prison today by Joseph Milano, one of the four men who are scheduled to go to the electric chair for the crime today. The other three men are James Cassidy, Joseph Usefof and Charles McLaughlin.

Milano made his confession to Major Louis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing. Lawes immediately telephoned the gist of Milano's statement to Governor Smith at Albany.

Warden Lawes visited Milano in his cell and told him that if he had anything on his mind he had better tell it before it was too late. The warden told him the governor had refused to stay the executions. Milano broke down and made his statement.

"Cassidy was drunk," he said, "Charlie (McLaughlin) is a dope and was led along. I could do anything I wanted with him.

"I got the money. The agent tried to get it back. That's how he got shot. I fired the shots. When we started out to do the job we met Usefof at the foot of the subway stairs. We asked him to wait and he did. He didn't know what we were up to. Of course, after we fled he had to run."

Milano declared he made his confession to "save his three pals."

The slayer's aged father, Frank, was at the prison early today to see his son for the last time. He was crushed by Milano's confession of guilt.

Usefof's sister, Sylvia, and brother, Leon, also came to the prison early today from Albany, where they had made an unsuccessful plea last night to Governor Smith for a stay of execution for their brother. Upon hearing of Milano's confession they returned at once to Albany, where they hoped to see Governor Smith again and win a stay of execution.

Vincent Libell, attorney for Usefof, went to New York to apply to Supreme Court Justice Giegerich for a stay of execution on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

The four condemned men were transferred from the new death house to the old at noon today and given their black suits—the clothes they are to wear when electrocuted. Prison officials went ahead with preparations for the executions although they expected that two or possibly three of the executions may be halted as a result of Milano's confession.

JOHNSON TO ASK JERSEY RECOUNT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 29.—Senator Hiram Johnson will formally demand a recount of the votes cast in Tuesday's New Jersey primary, it was announced here today at Johnson's eastern headquarters. Angus McSween, his campaign manager, consulted legal authorities this morning and later announced that he would ask that a custodian be appointed to take charge of the ballot boxes.

With nearly all the returns in today, it appeared that General Wood had been returned a sure winner by several hundred votes. The closeness of the race, however, and the reports received from Johnson supporters in certain sections of the state that frauds had been perpetrated, moved the Johnson eastern forces to take action.

Camden county is especially suspected by Johnson's friends.

A Novel Window Display.

A very attractive window display is shown at the sporting goods store of Charles A. Warren of 260 Fair street. The center of this window is a large black circle which revolves slowly, the circle being surmounted by three silver base ball trophies two of which are for the first and second prizes for the Twilight Baseball League and the other the prize for the Interscholastic League. The circle is run by an invisible power and everyone seems to wonder by what means the large circle is propelled.

If Operators Hold Firm At Final Conference Workers Will Withdraw And Walk Out—Miners' Demands Now 27 Percent, Were 60.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 29.—A strike of mine workers in the anthracite fields loomed today as a result of the refusal of a compromise offer of fifteen percent wage increases by the general scale committee of the United Mine Workers meeting here with operators on a new working agreement. Leaders of the miners declared their negotiations had come to a crisis and threatened a "break" unless the operators immediately revise their offer.

The conferees will meet this afternoon for a final conference, at which the miners will demand a new offer. In event the operators hold firm, it is freely predicted that the workers will withdraw from the negotiations resulting in a general walkout throughout the anthracite fields.

The operators in their compromise offer suggested settlement by an anthracite coal commission to be appointed by President Wilson. This offer also was rejected by the miners. The latter greatly modified their demands several days ago, cutting their increase demand from sixty to twenty-seven percent.

GERMANY CANT PAY REPARATIONS

While in Present Condition, Says Lloyd-George—Spa Conference to See Definite Liquidation Proposal—Must Get Guns and Airplanes Provided by Treaty.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 29.—Premier Lloyd-George, addressing the house of commons today, on the results of the San Remo conference, declared that Germany in her present condition is unable to pay the reparations demanded in the treaty of Versailles.

The forthcoming conference with the German representatives at Spa next month, he said, was to seek a solution of the present difficulties. He declared he wanted to see the German ministers at that time acknowledge their nation's liability. The premier believed that a definite proposal for liquidation would be made.

One of the most difficult matters, the house was informed, was to enforce the disarmament clauses of the treaty.

"We must, however," he said, "get the guns and airplanes. We cannot allow these terrible weapons of war to lie about."

Listen to Friend's Admonition.

It is a strange thing to behold what gross errors and extreme absurdities many, especially of the greater sort, do commit for want of a friend to tell them of the great damage both to their fame and fortune. For as St. James said, they are as men "that look sometimes into a glass and presently forget their own shape and favor." The best thing for any man is the admonition of a friend.—Bacon.

NEW YORK MANAGERS AND PRODUCERS TO SEE "A YOUNG GIRL'S ROMANCE" AT OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT

SEE PLAY BEFORE NEW YORK SEES IT

A delegation of theatrical managers and producers from New York will be present at the Kingston Opera House tonight, when the Myrkle-Harder Company will produce for one performance only—"A Young Girl's Romance," a new play by a new author, Julie Herne, daughter of famous James Herne, author of "Shore Acres." "A Young Girl's Romance" has been bought by a New York producer, who will place it on Broadway shortly, which speaks for itself of the merits of the play. Tonight will be its last performance before its Broadway run, giving the theatre goers of Kingston a chance to see this play before New York sees it, and it is to be hoped they will take advantage of the fact for it is a wonderful presentation we are offered.

"A Young Girl's Romance" is a story of flirtatious wives—and answers the question does it pay to flirt? It is not a sex play. But it teaches a beautiful lesson—one that every man, woman and child should learn.—Advertisement.

YOUNG MEN NEEDED

For Positions as Bookkeepers and Stenographers in Kingston Offices.

The demand for graduates of the Moran School has been increasing steadily of late, and with new industries becoming established in this city and other large concerns reported on the way, there is every inducement for boys and young men to learn bookkeeping, shorthand and related branches, a knowledge of which is so necessary a qualification in business nowadays. The mastery of these subjects is, unquestionably, a stepping stone to high executive positions. Five young men graduates, names will appear in a later issue, have been placed within a week with corporations or big business firms in this city.

Despite the general impression that office work is handled almost exclusively by young women, the fact remains that calls for young men are being received continually by the Moran School. And the salaries now offered are considerably in advance of those paid a year or two ago. It does not follow, however, that there is any let-up in the demand for young women assistants, the unusual number of positions filled during the last few weeks bearing evidence quite to the contrary.

The special spring and summer sessions conducted by the Moran Business School offer an excellent opportunity for the acquiring of a business education that will best fit young people for real service in the business world—with the distinct advantage of individual instruction from highly qualified instructors.

Spencer's Business School Notes.

The following graduates of Spencer's Business School, Inc. have recently accepted their first positions in business:

Edwin Cowdrey, a graduate of the shorthand department, has been placed in a desirable position as stenographer, typist and office assistant with the Standard Oil Company, this city.

Miss Florence Meyer, an honor graduate of Spencer's Business School, has been placed in a very good situation as stenographer, typist and filing clerk with F. Jacobson & Sons, shirt manufacturers, Cornell street and Smith avenue, this city.

Miss Mary Keresman, an honor graduate of the stenographic department, has secured a temporary position as stenographer and general office assistant with Valentin Burgevin, Inc., Pearl street office.

John Bartsch, an experienced graduate of Spencer's School, has secured an excellent position in the office of A. H. Gildersleeve, wholesale fruit dealer, 613 Broadway, this city.

Several young ladies have completed their stenographic courses at Spencer's and will soon go to New York city to accept responsible positions. Their many school friends wish them abundance of success in their new field of labor. Just at present there is an enormous demand for competent professional and clerical assistants

"COME OUT AND MARRY US."

Although in every age the male population has been greatly reduced by wars, no less than eight millions having been killed in battle since 1914, for example, nature has nevertheless contrived that the world's population of males shall about equal that of females. But nature fails to make provision for the fact that, while adventurous men go forth to seek new fortunes in the wilder parts of the earth, women remain to crowd the more comfortable centers of civilization. It is no surprise to hear, therefore, that the House of Commons is grappling with the problem presented by a "surplus" of nearly two million women in Great Britain and that an appropriation is proposed in aid of the movement represented by the Society for the Overseas Settlement of British Women.

This plan of sending "surplus" women to distant British possessions, though inevitably revived after the world war, is no new thing in England's history. Among previous assisted emigrations of this sort, perhaps the first on record occurred in the time of King James, when willing English girls were carried across the sea and "sold" at Jamestown, Va., for so many pounds of tobacco required by the British chartered company which did the ferrying. No longer than twenty years ago the British government engaged in an effort to induce 300,000 young English women to emigrate to New Zealand and Australia, in the latter country alone at that time there being 257,653 more men than women. Male candidates for matrimony in those colonies ardently encouraged the movement, one Australian journal, in behalf of these, urgently calling upon the unprovided maids of the mother land to "come out and marry us!" And now, as then, a "surplus" of young women can go forth and serve the interests of the race as they can not at home. Of course propriety will require the employment of euphemism in order that maidenly delicacy of feeling may be respected, but the movement itself is based on sound principle and is desirable.

Revolution in Mexico is boiling up again after a period of comparative quiet. Bloody fighting in Mexico City is threatened, and Carranza is laying his plans for precipitate flight. Scores of Americans in the capital and elsewhere throughout the country will probably suffer before the spasm of bloodshed runs itself out. And still the sick man in the White House keeps to his policy of watchful waiting, even giving serious consideration to permitting bands of the bandits to make their way through our territory in order that they may fall upon their intended victims more quickly. But we can console ourselves that watchful waiting has only about 300 more days' lease on life, when it will be supplanted by a spirit of virile Americanism in the conduct of our foreign relations.

Latest figures place the total loss to the government, as a result of Federal control of the railroads, at $1,123,000,000. That sum includes $225,000,000, which it is estimated must be paid to the roads under the guarantee provisions of the transportation act. The exact losses cannot be determined until the affairs of the railroad administration are finally closed. It is thought that that cannot take place before December 31, 1920, and it may run beyond March 1, 1921.

The Department of Justice reports that about 1,200 profiteers have been arrested in the campaign against high prices, and "25 or 30" have been sent to jail. That is the net result of all the scurrying and the fussing and the loud promises accompanying Mr. Palmer's anti-profiteering campaign. Yet he pretends to seek the presidency on his record as head of the Department of Justice!

The Britisher Chancellor of the Exchequer says that the new budget taxes will enable the payment of over a billion dollars of the English debt this year and almost a billion and a half next year. Before the the chancellor starts paying off the principal of the debt he should see that the interest on all of the debt is paid. There is a little matter of some $300,000,000 a year due this country, payment of which does not seem to be bothering the English.

OVERALLS ADVOCATE.

Clothing Prices Arouse Mother—Physicians Praised.

Dear Editor:—Kindly find space in your valuable paper for the following. First, let me say, I am a mother of five fine boys, therefore am really in earnest when I ask how am I clothe them at the present high cost of clothing? The prices of ready made clothes are out of all reason, and the prices Kingston tailors are demanding are simply shameful. It seems the only way to bring such profiteering to an end is the wearing of overalls. Let the men and boys wear overalls. They are clean, cool and comfortable, and the women and girls gingham.

Again I ask, why such prices? There are just as many sheep. There are just as many fields of cotton growing. Let the men and boys, women and girls of Kingston get together earnestly, stop buying clothes at the prices they now are. Why longer meekly stand and be "fleeced?"

Look at our Kingston physicians, if you please, working day and night, and especially during the great epidemic through which we have just passed. The demand far exceeded the supply, and yet not one raised one cent on their call prices, notwithstanding we all know they are paying far greater prices for drugs than they have formerly paid. God bless them, one and all. I see by the papers that the couple who were married in overall and gingham at the Waldorf-Astoria Saturday are going to make their home in Kingston. May we profit by the example they have already set.

DIRTY BOWERY HEALTHY SPOT

Officials Unable to Explain It, but It's True.

PASSED UP BY FLU EPIDEMIC

When Other Sections of New York City Are Afflicted by Contagious Diseases the Bowery Always Seems to Escape—Cleanliness a Possession Which is Held in No Great Respect by Denizens of Bowery.

The astonishing statement is made by an inspector of the sanitary division of the New York health department that the Bowery, with all its lack of purity, and cleanliness, is the healthiest spot in America, writes Frederick J. Haskin in the Chicago News. During the late influenza epidemic the Bowery was practically immune from the disease, and the same holds true in regard to all other afflictions affecting the rest of New York, he says. People living along the Bowery never seem to get ill. Why? No one appears to know. It seems as if the mysterious element which kept the Bowery safe from plague in early days when the nearby town was stricken with smallpox is still operating.

It is possible that there is some health-producing quality, still undiscovered, which haunts the Bowery—more powerful than sanitation itself, or rather the lack of it? This is the problem that New York is pondering now, wishing that Sir Oliver Lodge were still here to help it.

While the Bowery has struck a slight vein of prosperity recently, it still attracts the poorest classes of the city. It is the one street within miles of New York where you can find numerous lodging houses advertising shelter at 30 cents per night; where whole dinners may be procured for 25 and 30 cents, and where clothing is peddled at prices ranging below 50 cents. Naturally, clothing at this price is not famous for its wear or warmth, so that the citizens of the Bowery are ill-clad and insufficiently so. The men who patronize the lodgings wear no gloves or overcoats, and their shoes generally leak. But they are healthy.

Cleanliness Not Pronounced.

Cleanliness is also a possession which is held in no great respect by the citizens of the Bowery. So far as they are concerned, they would just as soon it didn't exist, and especially that it was not so rigidly enforced by the health department.

"When it comes to buying soap," says Inspector Davis, "the citizens of the Bowery much prefer eats—coffee and stew or beans—so that sometimes soap is sidetracked. Perhaps all their necks are not clean and their faces not polished up, or their bodies scrubbed as thoroughly as one might wish, still the dirtiest ones I have come across are the healthiest."

In spite of this discovery, the health department refuses to argue, as might be expected, that filth is conducive to health. Instead, it is putting forth laborious efforts to make the Bowery clean up. Inspector Davis, when not inspecting lodging houses for signs of dirt, spends his time addressing large audiences of the men who patronize them, explaining the necessity of sanitary precautions and asking for their co-operation. The men are usually willing enough to help, but the lodging house keepers are not quite so gracious.

"It was a Chinese joint that gave the first heed to our campaign for sanitation," says Inspector Davis. "Gee, what a dump it was! But the proprietor took my advice, and in a week's time all the old beds, sheets and dirty blankets were thrown out, and in their stead new bunks, new bedding and clean everything put in. The floors that were dirty now look white, and the spiderwebs (the Chinese proprietor called them 'whiskers') are gone.

Corner on Insect Market.

"At one lodging house the proprietor appears to have cornered the insect market. He has been given orders to get rid of his surplus stock. His point was, 'If the men don't kick, why should the health department?' But, says I, 'these men go to all parts of the city, and we do not want them to take with them excess baggage.'

Not all of the citizens of the Bowery are very poor, according to Inspector Davis. Many are employed in factories, warehouses, shipyards, and a large number of the younger men in offices, where they make fairly good salaries. They stick to the Bowery because living there is cheap, and then, they say, they are afraid to move to other parts of the city which "seem so unhealthy." Inspector Davis knows of hundreds of such men who are making at least $40 a week, living on $10, and putting $30 a week away in the bank.

But to the casual explorer, walking down the Bowery in search of its peculiar healthful charm, there is certainly little to recommend it. At present, weeks after the great blizzard of the winter, the street, under the arch of the Third avenue elevated, is still covered with a thick, irregular carpet of grimy ice, broken in places by large ponds of black water, so that crossing the Bowery on foot is almost as impossible as crossing the Hudson or any other great river.

Stores Shabby, Dirty.

The numerous small stores which huddle against one another on each side of the street, are all in need of paint, to say nothing of soap and water. Above them are the dusty, silent windows of the lodgings of the poor, with fire escapes at frequent intervals, apparently not so much for use in case of fire as for supporting lines of wildly flapping, drying clothes.

Much of the business on the Bowery is transacted out of doors, hardware, second-hand furniture, second-hand clothes, nondescript wares and occasionally books in the last stages of dilapidation being exhibited on stalls outside the stores as a lure to the constant stream of poorly clothed humanity surging past their doors. Most of the women customers are beshawled, sometimes the shawl being the bright vermilion worn by gypsy women, but the men's garb, such as it is, is second-hand American.

The other day a middle-aged married couple stopped before a hardware stall in search of a screw driver. The woman, who looked Italian, wore a black woolen skirt, and a red shawl closely wrapped about her head. The man wore a jaunty felt hat and dusty fur-collared overcoat, which looked as if in days gone by it might have belonged to a popular matinee idol.

Have Ruddy Complexions.

It is noticeable that the complexion of the men and women who tend the stalls is exceptionally ruddy, a condition one would be apt to attribute to the outdoor air were it not for Inspector Davis and his statistics. For, according to him, neither fresh air nor complexion have anything to do with it. Even the pale dope victims who dwell along the Bowery, of whom there are hundreds between the ages of fourteen and forty, have good health, he says.

While dingy and in places apparently falling to pieces, the Bowery reflects the general prosperity of the nation. It is not quite so hungry and miserable as it used to be, and hence not quite so desperate. Criminal joints have given way to employment offices; saloons to movie theaters, and dance halls to banks, so that the street seems to be headed for a future as healthy, respectable and thrifty, as at its birth in the days of the early Dutch settlers.

Then it was a refuge for fugitives from the smallpox scourges that were constantly breaking out in New York; later it was a refuge for criminals, and now it is a sort of dustpan, receiving all the human sweepings from the surrounding metropolis. But through all these stages of decline, the Bowery has retained its uncanny original inheritance of health, flouting all scientific assumptions that pestilence and disease follow in the path of dirt.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

THE CHOIR INVISIBLE

By JAMES LANE ALLEN

Condensation by Miss Sara Ware Bassett

James Lane Allen, who has lived much in New York City since 1886, had the good fortune to spend his boyhood in a country of surpassing loveliness. He was born (Dec. 21, 1849) near Lexington, Ky., on the old Allen estate, where his father settled in the wilderness days. The sheer charm of the blue grass region seems to have woven itself into the nature of the boy, who was destined to paint so many exquisite word pictures of his native state.

Mr. Allen took his bachelor's and master's degrees in the old Transylvania university, founded by Kentucky pioneers. He was compelled, by the failure in his father's fortune, to begin to teach at once, in public and private schools. He later became professor of Latin and higher English at Bethany College. He never married. In 1886 he definitely forsook academic pursuits, went to New York City and devoted himself to writing. By 1918 he had published 17 books. "Flute and Violin," a collection of short stories, appeared in 1891. "The White Cowl" has brought many pilgrims to its scene, the Abbey of Gethsemene, an exquisite bit of old France, near Louisville. In "Kentucky Cardinal" and "Aftermath" (1895-6), Mr. Allen first really proved his power. Well known among his later books are "The Reign of Law" "The Mettle of the Pasture," and "The Bride of the Mistletoe." His novel "The Choir Invisible" written in 1897, is perhaps the most "vibrant with the passion of beauty and pain" of any of his books.

Few writers of American fiction are better qualified to present the early history of Kentucky than is James Lane Allen, himself a native of the Blue Grass State.

He chose as his setting for "The Choir Invisible" that picturesque period during Washington's administration when the Mississippi was just being opened for navigation, and great tides of pioneers were migrating through the Alleghany highway to settle the sparsely populated regions of the West and South.

Lexington, Kentucky, chancing to be directly in the path of one tributary of this current, received not only many of those who were abandoning the cities of the coast for the untried territory of a newer land, but also others who, having tested out the Utopian western country and left there health, wealth, and dreams of success, were returning broken-hearted to the homes from which they had come.

Hence in Lexington one encountered persons of every class.

It was a heterogeneous populace, high of courage and strong of fortitude, that amid clearing in forest and cane-brake laid the foundation of this fine old Southern city; a populace not to be daunted by discomfort, privation, or unceasing toil.

The heroes and heroines who thus sacrificed their lives on the altar of civilization have, the author tells us, long since joined "the choir invisible of the immortal dead," but they have left behind them a heritage that has come down to us through the centuries.

The chief character of the story is John Gray, the master in the little log schoolhouse, and we have a charming glimpse of him: "a young fellow of powerful build, lean, muscular, wearing simply but with gentlemanly care a suit of black which was relieved around his wrists and neck by linen, snow-white and of the finest quality." He had a handsome head covered with thick red hair, we are told, and was a man of such integrity as to render him a worthy descendant "from one of Cromwell's unconquerable, hymn-singing army."

We therefore are not surprised to find him holding himself aloof from the follies of the time, and seeking out the comradeship of those to whom the finer and nobler things of life appeal. Yet he is very human—a creature of anger, passion, and a multitude of moods. Moreover it is quite consistent with his character that he should fall in love with a woman whom he idealizes, Amy Falconer, who "was perhaps the first beautiful girl of aristocratic birth ever seen in Kentucky, and the first of the famous train of those who for a hundred years since have wrecked or saved the lives of men." She is a coquette, vain, shallow, and incapable of deep feeling, and she tosses John's love aside in a moment of pique for that of Joseph Holden; afterward, on discovering that there is a prospect of John's inheriting a fortune and becoming a person of importance, she shamelessly offers to rid herself of Joseph and reinstate John in her graces.

John Gray, however, is not to be so lightly dropped and picked up again. The episode proves to him that his idol has feet of clay and with his faith in her shattered he bids her farewell.

Amy, in the meantime, has made her home with her aunt and uncle, Major and Mrs. Falconer. Mrs. Falconer stands out against a background of high-born Virginian ancestry—a background of jewels, brocades, fans, and satin slippers; of balls and minuets; of wide-reaching plantations and slaves. The Major has been one of those who has heroically fought in the Revolution, and to whom the Southern beauty out of patriotic gratitude has given her hand, bravely following him into the Kentucky wilderness. Unfortunately, although neither of the pair confess it, the marriage has been an uncongenial one. Both, however, are too noble minded to do otherwise than be true to the union that holds them together. Yet there is a scar of disappointment beneath the surface, and in the woman's heart a weariness and longing that nothing satisfies. During John Gray's visits to her niece Mrs. Falconer has become deeply interested in the young schoolmaster, who is about her own age and whose tastes she shares. Between them a companionship has sprung up which each honestly mistakes for friendship.

Amy's attraction for the man has been an untutored impulse of the senses; but Jessica Falconer's power over him is one of deep spiritual inspiration.

When he awakens to the discovery that in reality it is Mrs. Falconer whom he loves his reverence for her, her purity, and her loyalty to her husband all bind him to silence. She also loves him but is in honor bound to give him no sign, and hence with their love unspoken he goes East ostensibly to recover the legacy he expects to inherit, but determined never to return.

The lawsuit for his property goes against him and he is cast into jail for debt, from which ignominy the efforts of friends release him. He is a proud man and wishing to pay this debt of gratitude he proposes to marry the daughter of the family that has befriended him. Before the marriage, however, he tells his future bride quite frankly that he loves someone else who is not free, and it is with this knowledge that she accepts him. While the wedding is in preparation a letter comes to him from Mrs. Falconer announcing the death of her husband, and in the silent hope that his fiancee will give him his liberty he acquaints her with the change in his prospects. We gather from the text that the girl is unwilling to give him up, and as he is too honorable to demand his freedom he carries out his pledge.

All ignorant of this turn of events Mrs Falconer in the meantime is so sure of his love that she erects in distant Kentucky a stately mansion modeled after the home of her early youth. She is still in the thirties and beautiful, and deluded into the belief that at last her dreams are to be fulfilled she makes ready for her marriage. A paper telling of John's union with someone else rudely destroys her paradise. Twice she has missed the prize of happiness. The intense joys of womanhood she is never to know. "I shall go softly all my days," she murmurs.

Time sweeps on but her beauty does not fade. She becomes the great lady of the Southern settlement and at her home Aaron Burr and many another famous American is entertained. More than one man lays his fortune at her feet and goes away disappointed.

There are women who never experience the heights and the depths of life. "Gazing deep into their eyes we are reminded of the light of dim churches—They are the women who have missed happiness and who know it; but having failed of affection give themselves to duty. It was into the company of these quieter pilgrims that she had passed."

One day long afterward when she is alone in her garden she sees coming toward her a magnificent young fellow at the brink of manhood.

He lifts his hat with courtly gesture.

"I am John Gray, the son of your old friend, and my father sends me to you to stay if you will let me. And he desires me to deliver this letter."

"John Gray!" she cried. "You John Gray! You! Take off your hat."

For a moment she looked at his forehead and his hair; her eyes became blinded with tears. She threw her arms around his neck with a sob and covered his face with kisses.

Alone in the solitude of her bedroom she reads the letter.

John tells her that he loves her, that he has always loved her; and that it is the fire of this love that through the years has kept his ideals aglow.

"Many a time this candle has gone out; but as quickly as I could snatch any torch—with your sacred name on my lips—it has been relighted."

"If," he adds, "I have kept unbroken faith with any of mine, thank you. And thank God!"

Thus ends the novel.

CHARTER CHANGES ARE APPROVED

Aldermen and Mayor in Joint Session Approve Bill Authorizing Council to Create Officer of Comptroller and Purchasing Agent.

The vote on the proposed charter amendments allowing the creation of the offices of city comptroller and purchasing agent Wednesday evening stood as follows:

| In Favor | Against |
|---|---|
| Warren | Leverich |
| Roosa | Parish |
| Schick | Kirchner |
| Lemister | Macholdt |
| Kullman | Myers |
| Higgins | Martin |
| Dittus | Purvis |
| Canfield | |

As the vote was being tabulated by City Clerk Doremus, the question was raised by Alderman Martin as to whether the presiding officer, President Dittus, had the right to vote as he understood that the charter gave the presiding officer the right to vote only in case of a tie in the council.

Mayor Canfield and the city clerk assured the alderman from the Twelfth that President Dittus's vote should not be questioned.

The public hearing, before it closed suddenly, proved to be a hot session. President Dittus presided, and Mayor Canfield sat beside him. All of the aldermen were present when the meeting was called to order.

After the proposed amendments giving the council authority to create the two new jobs were read, Mayor Canfield read the following communication:

Mayor Explained Needs.

The Honorable, the Common Council of the City of Kingston, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—

In reference to the amendments to the city charter which you are called upon to give expression to your approval or disapproval, I desire to summarize the provisions thereof for your information.

These amendments provide that in the event the city treasurer or assessor, or city comptroller or commissioner of contract and supply, providing we should have such latter officials, becoming ill or otherwise prevented from performing their respective duties, the mayor may appoint a deputy to act temporarily during the absence of such officials.

These amendments also confer the power upon the common council to create the office of city comptroller and the office of a purchasing agent to be known as the commissioner of contract and supply. In the event that you shall exercise your authority to create such office the mayor is given power to make the appointment.

The act provides that the comptroller shall maintain and supervise the maintenance of the accounting records of the fiscal transactions of the city, and shall keep a separate account with every department and with each improvement. Every claim against the city would have to be verified and approved by the auditing committee of the department and the officer whose action gave rise to the claim and be audited by the comptroller. In case the claimant should be dissatisfied with the audit he could appeal to the common council. The comptroller would keep an account between the city and the treasurer and of all moneys received and disbursed by the treasurer. He would also examine the treasurer's books and ascertain as to their correctness and render a quarterly detailed report to the mayor and common council of the funds and financial condition of the city, and within sixty days after the close of each fiscal year, prepare and publish in book or pamphlet form a full and accurate verified statement showing receipts and disbursements of the year and the indebtedness at the close of the year. He would also sell the bonds of the city.

Nearly every city has a comptroller. He exercises the function of a centralized bookkeeper, fiscal officer and auditor. It is not expected to add much extra expense because it will eliminate much of the bookkeeping and clerical work in many departments and bring it into one system and under one control.

The amendment as to a commissioner of contract and supply provides for the letting of all contracts by him of any work or for the supply of any material required by or for the use of any officer or department, except for municipal lighting and except work done by any department other than by contract, in all cases where it exceeds two hundred and fifty dollars other than in cases of emergency as outlined therein. No contract can be let except after the receipt of sealed bids. It provides for the requisition of the officer or department requiring the work or materials after which the commissioner prepares specifications, and obtains sealed bids to be opened at a designated time.

The purpose of such a commissioner or purchasing agent is to make contracts and purchases for work and materials for the various city departments. At the present time about ten different departments purchase their own respective supplies independently of each other. The object of creating a purchasing department is to standardize methods of purchasing and unite purchases and places someone in charge who would and could make a study of the best methods to secure the necessary materials most economically. The total purchases of materials amount to nearly one hundred thousand dollars and it is expected that such a commissioner would earn much more than the cost of conducting his office.

Respectfully,
PALMER CANFIELD, JR.,
Mayor.

President Dittus said that the council would hear anyone wishing to be heard. Harold L. Van Deusen was given the privilege of the floor and opposed the amendments on the ground that the new positions were unnecessary and predicted a heavy increase in the tax rate.

Mayor Canfield in reply to Mr. Van Deusen stated that it is evident that "that person had been simmering for a long time and that the arguments advanced by him were only vagaries of fancy." He said no one had the right to attempt to forecast the future and attempt to say what would happen if the charter amendments were adopted.

Does Not Approve $3,000 Salary.

The mayor said that that he did not approve of a salary of $3,000 and that there would be no deputies. It might be, he said, that the purchasing agent may require the services of an ordinary clerk or stenographer. The total expense, however, according to the mayor, would be very much less than the figures presented. The fact of a person's rent being raised was no argument, said the mayor.

Don't Want Them This Year.

The mayor further stated that he was not in favor of the charter amendments becoming effective until the first of next year. He again called attention to the ten city departments who are each keeping separate bookkeeping accounts.

Kept Busy Signing Warrants.

Mayor Canfield said he spent considerable time signing pay warrants and that was not the duty of a mayor. By having the offices named in the charter amendments that would be done away with.

Not on Business Scale.

Mayor Canfield said that there was no business concern in the city that had ten different departments with each keeping their own separate accounts, but that they had one centralized bookkeeper. The city needed such an officer and it would tend to put the affairs of the city more on a business basis.

Macholdt Objected.

Alderman Macholdt said he did not favor the creating of two new jobs. The way he looked at it the city would have to pay at least $7,000 if the amendments were adopted. He said it was not a question of pleasing a few by adopting the amendments but of pleasing the thousands of rent payers of the city.

He asked if the council had not met to vote on the question of creating the two offices.

Amendments Only Provide.

Mayor Canfield replied that the amendments did not provide for the offices it simply conferred the power on the common council to create the offices, if desired.

Macholdt Not Convinced.

"If the mayor can show me that this does not mean that the city shall be burdened with two new offices. I will eat this paper," replied Alderman Macholdt flourishing a copy of the proposed amendments.

"I will not ask the aldermen to eat the paper," replied the mayor with a smile, "but he misunderstands the situation." The mayor then read from the bill, and closed by saying that he had gone over the matter twice and the alderman should understand it if he understands the English language.

Alderman Macholdt Undignified Said Mayor.

The mayor said that the argument advanced by Alderman Macholdt did not add to the dignity of the council meeting and he was glad there were not many citizens present to hear it. It was foolish, the mayor said, for anyone to try and talk about something with which he was unacquainted.

"Trying To Turn It Into Dog Fight."

Mr. Van Deusen again obtained the floor and said that the adoption of the charter amendments meant that at the next meeting or so of the common council an ordinance creating the two jobs would be brought in for adoption and that was what Alderman Macholdt meant.

Mayor Canfield said that the alderman did not mean such a thing, and had not so stated. Further the mayor said: "This meeting should not be turned into a dog fight."

"Mr. Mayor," said Mr. Van Deusen indignantly, "a citizen at a public hearing should have a right to express an opinion without being accused of starting a dog fight."

"Mr. Van Deusen, you are out of order," retorted the mayor heatedly adding that he would have him ejected from the council chamber if he said another word.

Alderman Schick came to the rescue of Mr. Van Deusen stating that it was a public hearing, and that a citizen had a right to be heard, and that Mr. Van Deusen should be given a further opportunity later in the meeting to say a few words if he wished.

Alderman Warren Speaks.

Alderman Warren said that he had not thoroughly understood the charter amendments, and on his way to the session had stopped in and seen a friend, a prominent lawyer, and asked him what he thought about the matter and received the reply that the lawyer himself did not really know what to think of it either.

"If it was just a question of the present mayor making the appointments I would favor it," said Alderman Warren. "If it is up to the mayor who succeeds him he might be a man we would not care to give such power to." The alderman closed with the suggestion that the matter be laid on the table until the aldermen could give it more thought.

Alderman Roosa Asked Questions.

Alderman Roosa inquired of the mayor what it cost the city for public accountants last year, and was informed $1,500.

"Would it do away with any of the clerks in the various boards?" was his next question.

Expect to Eliminate Some Jobs.

Mayor Canfield replied that it would eliminate either some of the clerks or some of the work. In case the work was reduced salaries would probably be reduced also.

"Is there not a stenographer or typist employed in the city hall at the present time who could act for the new officers?" asked Alderman Roosa.

The mayor replied that he thought there was but did not care to state in just what department.

In closing the alderman from the Second ward asked "Could the two new offices be rescinded at any time by the common council?"

"They could," replied the mayor.

Martin Spoke Against Amendments.

Alderman Martin, of the Twelfth ward, said that the resident of the city had placed each alderman in office believing that they would act for their best interests. We must consider the people's interest, said the alderman.

Alderman Martin said that the great majority of the residents of the city were not in favor of the proposed new offices to be created. These were not normal times, and it was not wise to spend the city's money without giving the matter careful thought.

Alderman Martin said that the common council had always looked over the city's bills very carefully before auditing them, and he did not see the need of a head bookkeeper at this time.

If such offices were created, the alderman believed that the council might just as well disband and turn over the salaries of $5 a meeting to help pay the salaries of city comptroller and purchasing agent.

In closing Alderman Martin offered a resolution that the amendments be disapproved, which was promptly seconded by Alderman Myers.

Mayor Canfield said that the alderman was out of order, and such a motion could not be offered.

Alderman Schick said that he thought action should be taken in the matter that night. It don't give the mayor any power to railroad it through, he said, but it gives the council the power to create such offices if desired.

Alderman Kirchner Asked Why.

"Why were not these amendments brought before us before being sent to the legislature for adoption?" asked Alderman Kirchner of the Seventh ward.

"Because there was no provision in law covering that," replied the mayor. The mayor further said that the aldermen would remember that he had called attention at length to the two new offices in his mayor's message the first of the year. No alderman had objected at that time or since, and for that reason he was at a loss to understand why some present did not approve of adopting the charter amendments without further delay.

Martin Wanted It Laid Over.

Alderman Martin again obtaining the floor stated that he did not believe the council should pave the road for future aldermen by adopting the amendments. If next year it was desired to have such offices then let the council at that time adopt such charter amendments.

Warren Wanted To Be Excused.

As Alderman Martin closed Alderman Warren arose and asked "Mr. President may I be excused? I have an important engagement."

"You may," replied President Dittus with a smile, but as Alderman Warren turned to leave the room Mayor Canfield jogged the presiding officer on the arm stating, "Alderman Warren ought to vote before he leaves."

Declared Hearing Closed.

In order that Alderman Warren's vote might be recorded, President Dittus declared the public hearing closed without giving any one else an opportunity to appear in opposition to the amendments.

The council then adjourned.

After Whooping Cough—What?

This is No. 4 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages—such as Pneumonia, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Measles or even a long continued Cold—often leave these organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs. And how Vick's VapoRub may be of value in this condition.

Whooping cough is the "meanest" disease that childhood is heir to. While rarely fatal in itself, except to children under two years of age, still it hangs on so long—the coughing paroxysms are so violent, preventing proper sleep and digestion—that when the disease does disappear it leaves the child weakened and run down. In addition the violent coughing racks and strains the air passages and after recovery this irritation frequently remains.

During this period of convalescence the child should be most carefully watched until full strength is restored and the air passages regain their normal tone. A prominent authority even goes so far as to say—"There is more criminal neglect in connection with whooping cough than with any other disease."

While the disease is active, Vick's VapoRub usually helps to lessen the violence of the coughing, but it is during convalescence that Vicks is most valuable.

Because Vicks acts locally by stimulation thru the skin to draw out the inflammation, attract the blood away from the congested spots and relieve the cough. In addition the medicinal ingredients of Vicks are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors are breathed in all night long, thus bringing the medication to bear directly upon the inflamed areas.

Vicks should be rubbed in over the throat and chest until the skin is red—then spread on thickly and covered with hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying swallow a small bit the size of a pea.

Children's digestions are delicate—easily disturbed by too much "dosing." Vicks, therefore, is particularly recommended, since it is externally applied and so can be used often and freely without the slightest harmful effects.

Samples to new users will be sent free on request to the Vick Chemical Company, 234 Broad Street, Greensboro, N. C.

Formation of Asbestos.

Asbestos is found in fissures of rock and it is believed that, when the rock was forming and still hot, water penetrated the fissures, widened them and dissolved some of the silica and magnesia. On drying, these crystallized as a hydrated silicate of magnesia, forming threadlike crystals building up from opposite walls of the fissure and meeting in the middle.

ROSSKOPF PLEASED WITH NEW STORE

President of Concern Now Operating Van Wagenen's, Outlines Plans For Improving Facilities and Tells How Firm's Large Purchases Make for Lower Prices.

"Although having spent but a few days here, I am satisfied we made no mistake in coming to Kingston and taking over the Van Wagenen store," remarked L. W. Rosskopf, president of the Ross Stores, Inc., to a reporter of The Freeman Wednesday afternoon at the store on Wall street. "The people of Kingston and the adjoining section are surely entitled to have a store such as the Ross Stores management intend to make this one—our idea being to handle only the better line of merchandise. We intend also to pay special attention to surburban business, as with the railroad facilities and auto bus lines running in every direction in and out the city there should be no difficulty in bringing trade by offering a fine line of merchandise at reasonable prices. The store will be under the personal management of William Rudderham, who will make his residence here, and our buyers here will work in conjunction with our New York headquarters, where we have a wholesale house, and we thus get the advantage of the market, buy in big quantities for cash and divide up the goods purchased among our chain of Ross Stores." Mr. Rosskopf, in making plain his statement as to large purchases, showed the reporter a letter about to be mailed closing an order for the purchase of 25,000 pairs of kid gloves, of which order the Kingston store will receive about 2,500 pairs, to be sold at a big reduction. By buying big on a cash basis the benefit gained accrues to the stores, like the one in Kingston, among which the distribution is made.

Many improvement are contemplated by President Rosskopf, even to the enlargement of the store at the rear, and at present carpenters are busy erecting shelving on the upper floors on which to place goods, he saying: "I feel that there is a great opportunity for an extensive business in this territory."

The present staff of clerks and employes will be retained and there will be incorporated a bonus system in connection with the salaries paid, similar to that carried out by the Ross Stores Inc., in their wholesale and retail stores management, controlled by President Rosskopf and one or two others who own the majority of the stock in the corporation.

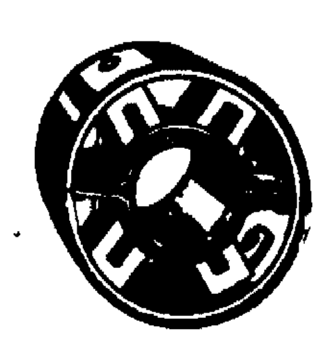
Keystone Steel Pulley

The Keystone Rim is made from steel 3-16 in. or ¼ in. thick. It is sufficiently strong and substantial for any service and requires no beads at the edges. It cannot collect dust, dirt or moisture. The edges of every Keystone rim are turned true by facing in a lathe. This insures more uniform balance.

Second—Keystone rivets never shear. Whenever rivets are used in Keystone Steel Pulleys, the metals are countersunk. This protects the rivets from all shearing strain.



NATIONAL STEEL PULLEY

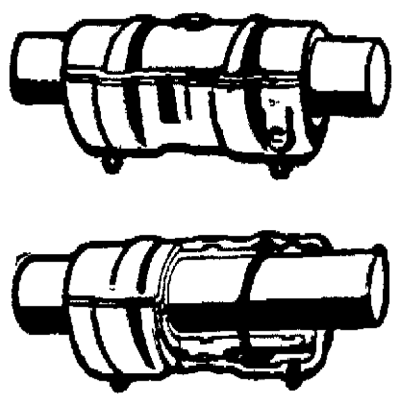
KEYSTONE Post Hangers are similar in design to the Drop Hanger. They are different from other makes in that the yoke opens at the side instead of at the top. This results in much greater strength and makes it easier to put shafting in the bearings.



The Keystone Ring Oiling Hanger Bearing is of decidedly superior design, construction and finish. The babbitt is of a high quality, which is bored and reamed out to size. There is a liberal oil reservoir and a replenishment of the oil about once in six months is all that is necessary.

Dickens as Social Reformer.

To my mind the greatest social reformer that we ever had, and one of the greatest that the world has ever seen, was a man of letters, one of the two greatest names perhaps of modern literature—Charles Dickens. That great writer points out that all the inheritors of that time—and we are the inheritors of that time—had their origin in the appalling circumstances in which the working people lived—in London, of course, which he knew best, first of all, but in like degree all over the country.—Viscount Burnham.

ROTARY CLUB ELECTS DIRECTORS

Reports On Year's Activities—Principal Lewis Finds Need For Extension of Boys' Work—Five Other Clubs Now In Neighboring Towns Due To Kingston Club's Influence.

At the annual business meeting and election of the Kingston Rotary Club held Wednesday at the Y. M. C. A. reports were presented covering the various activities of the club during the past year and directors for the coming year were elected. These directors will, later, meet and elect the other officers of the club.

Principal Lewis of the high school, chairman of the Boys' Work Committee, reported on the work of that committee and the need for continuing it. Those boys in the club formed and supervised by the committee have shown great progress and excellent conduct and the work should be extended, Mr. Lewis said. That there is a field for more work is proven by the fact that upwards of 600 boys in Kingston hang around on the streets and need to be kept from becoming disorderly.

A delegation that visited Port Jervis Monday evening where a new Rotary Club of 26 members was formed reported having had a fine time.

President C. R. Stull, in his closing report, referred to the fact that since the Kingston Rotary Club was organized four years ago, five other clubs had been formed in neighboring towns, largely due to its influence.

Directors were elected as follows: Charles L. Lewis, David Burgevin, A. W. Hoffman, John H. Gregory, William C. Hussey, Rev. Frank B. Seeley, Samuel Watts.

To be Placed in Country's Schools in Anti-Red Campaign.

Life sized portraits of Theodore Roosevelt, bearing his last message on Americanism, are to be placed in every school in the country, through the efforts of the American Defense Society. This activity is financed by trustees and friends of the organization as a part of the society's campaign against Bolshevism.

Many schools have already received their allotment of pictures, which are given with the stipulation that suitable frames be provided and that appropriate exercises accompany the display.

"Keep up the fight for Americanism" is the title of Col. Roosevelt's last message, sent to the society the night before his death.

Any public or high school desiring one of these pictures can obtain one by writing to the American Defense Society, 1133 Broadway, New York.

POLE OFFENSIVE BITING DEEPLY

Soviet Russia's Troubles Renewed as Polish Armies Overrun Red Lines, Ukrainians Rise, Whites of North Grow Restive and Japs Land Troops.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 29.—With "practical peace" with the allies almost within grasp, a new menace has arisen to confront soviet Russia and keep her arms busy in many parts of the old empire. A renewal of the war wrangles which has kept Russia in a ferment for the last year either is in progress or is threatened from several sources.

Continuing their great offensive begun Sunday, the Poles have beaten deeply into the red lines and today's dispatches declared them to have captured Overutch, 8 miles northeast of Jitomir, which the Poles occupied yesterday. Korsten and similar towns also were occupied by the Poles in the course of their advance.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch stated today that the Poles had met and defeated 36 Bolshevist divisions in the course of their advance. Many prisoners and much booty have been captured.

Official advices to the foreign office announced that Polish cavalry units are driving hard toward Kiev.

American locomotives made the launching of the offensive possible, it was declared today at the Polish legation here. The Poles recently have received a number of modern railroad engines, of which both Poland and Russia are badly in need.

Lenine recently announced that he would "dictate a red peace on the ruins of Warsaw," according to legation officials. The officials are convinced that his proffers of peace were designed more as a check to the offensive.

The object of the offensive, it was said at the legation, is to free Ukraine from red domination and to forestall all Lenine's attempts to crush Poland.

Simultaneously with the Polish drive, the Ukrainians are rising and threaten to divert the forces of Lenine and Trotzky from the more serious menace of the Polish offensive.

It is also learned authoritatively that the "whites" of Petrograd and in the Baltic district are attempting to organize.

In Western Siberia a new menace has arisen in the shape of the "Tsarites" who are proving extremely troublesome for the Moscow government.

In eastern Siberia the Japanese have landed additional marines.

DOUBTS LEGALITY OF COUNCIL ACTION

Alderman Martin Quotes Attorney General As Saying Mayor Has No Right To Preside At Hearing On City Bills—Finds No Law Authorizing Him Or Alderman-at-Large To Vote As Was Done When Charter Amendments Were Approved Wednesday Evening.

Editor of The Freeman:
Dear Sir:

In order that the people of Kingston, and especially the constituents of the seven alderman who voted against the charter amendments at last night's session of the common council may clearly understand the outcome, I will appreciate you publishing the following.

It was said at the close of the meeting that the vote was 8 to 7 for the charter amendments, but was not announced by either of the presiding officers as carried. And in order that the people of Kingston may judge for themselves, I ask this favor:

In regards to the mayor's own statement at Wednesday evening's public hearing that, according to the law, "he was presiding over this meeting or hearing according to powers accorded him by law."

I quote from opinion of attorney general construing Section 30, Article 3, of General City Law on Hearing on City Bills:

"Presiding Officer—Under this section, as to cities of the second and third class, it is clear that the mayor has no legal right to preside at the meeting of the mayor and legislative body and that, so far as the action of the common council at such meeting is concerned it, acting as an independent legislative body must be presided over by its own presiding officer."

Section 32, of Article 3, of the above General City Law reads as follows:

"Capacity in Which Hearing is Held—Under this section, in case of cities of the second and third class, both the mayor and the legislative body of the city must attend the hearing, but the mayor attends in his capacity as mayor, simply, and the legislative body is present in its character of a legislative body.

I fail to find in the General City Law or the Municipal Law where any power is given the mayor to vote. The mayor acts simply as mayor. But he cast a vote Wednesday evening for the charter amendments and he is not a member of the common council.

The alderman-at-large according to the law shall preside only over said meeting or public hearing. And I fail to note where any power is given him in either the General City or Municipal Law to vote. But at this hearing he also cast his vote for the charter amendments. According to the charter of the city of Kingston the presiding officer or alderman-at-large shall vote only in case of a tie vote.

There was no tie vote at the hearing. The vote of the entire common council, with no absentees, was 7 against the charter amendments to 6 for. Thereby disapproving of said amendments by 1 vote.

Section 33, Article 3 of the General City Law reads as follows:

"In a city of the second class or third class such certificate shall be signed by the mayor and by the presiding officer of the legislative body of such city, and such bill shall not be deemed to have been accepted by such city unless the mayor and a majority of the legislative body shall concur in such acceptance.*"

This section says the mayor and presiding officer (you will note) shall sign such bill but it does not say they shall be allowed to vote.

Personally I believe if this bill is sent to Governor Smith for his signature it will not stand law and an injunction may be started by any citizen of the city restraining any city official from creating the positions of comptroller or purchasing agent in our city.

Thanking you in advance for any courteries you may show us in regard to the above, and in behalf of Aldermen Leverich, Parish, Kirchner, Macholdt, Myers and Purvis

Sincerely,
Alderman 12th Ward.

Why They Rubbered.

This afternoon the majority of the male population on the Strand experienced severe eye strain watching a charming young lady wash windows from the ledge outside the second story windows. She had her dress tucked around her and pinned in the form of bloomers. As one interested spectator remarked, "She has two good reasons for picking out an otherwise dismal afternoon to wash windows."

Palmer May Run It.

There was a rumor on the streets today that George W. Palmer, the well known hotel man, would manage the Oriental Hotel at Kingston Point this season. Last season the hotel was leased by Casper Ketterer.

Loyd To Open Office.

Alfred E. Loyd has leased a suite of rooms on the second floor of the Masonic Building, Bradway and Strand, and will open a brokerage office. At present he has offices on Main street.

WOOD GETS 8 OHIO DELEGATES

Forty Pledged To Harding As Are 3 Of The 4 Delegates At Large—Harding Plurality 17,000.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Columbus, O., April 28.—Complete unofficial returns from 83 out of 88 precincts, and partial returns from the other five, show that Senator Warren G. Harding carried Tuesday's preferential election in Ohio by a plurality of about 17,000 over Major General Wood. The vote was Harding 133,973 and Wood 117,320.

A slight increase in Harding's plurality is expected when the return from the forty-seven precincts in Brown, Clermont, Columbiana, Miami and Williams counties, as yet unrecorded, as heard from.

PLANT TREES ON SOIL WHERE YANKEES DIED

French Reforesting Devastated Districts With Seed From United States.

On the battlefields where American soldiers gave their lives when the call from humanity came, France is planting trees sent by the American Forestry association.

Expressing the gratitude of the minister of agriculture of France, Ambassador Jusserand reported to the American Forestry association the first steps taken to care for the seeds which the association shipped to France from Boston January 15 to help in reforesting the battle areas. Upon arriving at Havre the seeds were sent to the central warehouse of the forest school at Nogent sur Vernisson, Loiret. In his report to the American Forestry association, Ambassador Jusserand said:

"Most of the seeds of Douglas fir will be sent to the departments of the Aisne, Oise, Ardennes and Somme, for the reforestation of the regions devastated by war. The seeds of the leafy trees, such as oak, ash and poplar, will be sown this spring in the nurseries of the same school and that at Nancy. The minister adds an expression of his desire that his feelings of deep gratitude and those of the administration of waters and forests be conveyed to the American Forestry association."

"Thus in the years to come," said Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Forestry association, "America will have the finest of all memorials on the battlefields where her sons answered the call of humanity—the living, growing trees of America."

LOSES HIS $15,000 FLAT

Business at Last Claims Building in Financial District.

The New York curb market is only a blur of red caps and black to the feeble eyes of the old man who sits all day at the window behind the old-fashioned Nottingham lace curtains at 62 Broad street.

Hiram Hildebrandt is ninety-two years old, and long has ceased to take any interest in the turmoil of the great financial world that seethes at his feet. Business, which by some mischance had spared the little building all these years, now has claimed it for her own, and the Hildebrandts must move.

For all these residential advantages (to say nothing of the financial possibilities of the location) the Hildebrandts have been paying the astonishing sum of $10 a month. They have six large rooms and a glass covered court that makes an excellent clothes yard.

Hiram Hildebrandt rented the flat fifty years ago from Mayor Gunther. When the property passed into the hands of the Stevens estate Mr. Hildebrandt was retained as janitor, and so the rent never was raised.

The Hildebrandts were paying for 3,000 square feet, or what would command a rental of $15,000. Instead they paid $10.

L. L. Winkelman, a broker, recently became the owner of the $10 flat. When altered the property will be worth about $400,000.

The body of a man believed to be Kinney was declared that of Sam Corlensky, pal of a bandit suspect held in the city hall in Sioux City, Ia. The suspect declared Corlensky was accidentally shot.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinney came from Johnstown cemetery to Sioux City to meet their son. He is being held in jail as a material witness in the case against the bandit suspect.

He said he did not know he had been reported dead until he read a story of his supposed death in a newspaper in Nebraska.

PETAIN IS DEMOCRATIC

Refuses to Use Government Auto When Off Duty.

Marshal Petain is noted for his democratic habits and a story is just being told of him which illustrates this point, while it brings into relief the way motor transportation was used by many American officers in France, says the Stars and Stripes.

The marshal was met in the Metro recently by Senator Strauss of the Seine, who asked the marshal if his motor was broken down that he was riding in the Metro.

"My car," the marshal replied, "is intended for government service. When I go out on my own account I take a public conveyance in order to save gasoline and tires."

SUNDAY BASEBALL QUESTION COMING

Expected That At Session May 4 The Council Will Be Asked To Adopt Ordinance Allowing Games Here —Will It Pass?

Last year the common council defeated a move to allow Sunday baseball in Kingston. This year another attempt will be made to have the alderman adopt an ordinance allowing games to be played and an admission charged.

It is understood that the question will be brought up at the regular meeting of the common council Tuesday, May 4. Those who favor Sunday baseball believe that they have a majority of the aldermen lined up to vote in favor of the adoption of such an ordinance.

COFFEY BOXES JOHNNY PALMER

Vincent Coffey, the local lightweight, will step eight rounds with Johnny Palmer of Newark in the star bout of the smoker of the Kingston Athletic Club to be held next Tuesday evening in Griffiths's Hall on lower Hasbrouck avenue Palmer will be remembered as the man who boxed Coffey at the K. of C Welcome Home reception in the armory. He is a clever boy with his mits and Coffey will have to step some to win

Another star bout will be the six rounds between Joe Reilley of this city and Charles Beecher of Poughkeepsie. Beecher has been "knocking them cold" down the river, while Joe has been cleaning up regularly every time he has been seen in action here Charley is said to weigh a trifle more than Joe, and a fast bout should be seen.

There will also be another six round bout and a four round preliminary. Membership tickets may be obtained at the usual places.

AT THE THEATRES.

"A Young Girl's Romance" at the Opera House.

The Myrkle-Harder company will present tonight at the Opera House "A Young Girl's Romance," a new play that will soon be given a run at one of the big Broadway theatres. Olive Thomas at Keeney's tonight will offer a new attraction for the "movie fans" and at the same time prove a delightful photoplay, well acted, well staged and with a lavish setting. The Gypsy Four in new songs will also add greatly to the program and give a variety of entertainment. Tomorrow and Saturday Robert Warwick in "Told in the Hills" a story of the west in the days when the west was west, days that are gone but never to be forgotten.

Double attraction is the program at the Auditorium tonight presenting William S. Hart in "The Fugitive," also Enid Bennett in "When Do We Eat," both good stories and both different, one a dyed-in-the-wool melodrama and the other a comedy drama. Tomorrow Margarita Fisher in "Put Up Your Hands."

The Mutual Play Company, the managers and producers of the newest cartoon musical comedy, "Katzenjammer Kids," which will be the attraction at the Kingston Opera House for matinee and night, Tuesday, May 4.
